People say, 'What is the sense of our small effort?' They cannot see that we must lay one brick at a time, take one step at a time.

DOROTHY DAY

We cannot wait any longer to deal with the structural causes of poverty in order to heal our society from an illness that can only lead to new crises.

People of faith advocating for social,
economic, and racial justice

SOWERS of JUSTICE

And those who are peacemakers will plant seeds of peace and reap a harvest of justice.

Who Are Sowers of Justice?

Sowers of Justice is a network of people of faith advocating for social, economic, and racial justice.

Sowers are action-oriented and make a difference by working for the long-term integration of justice into our community and by taking collective action that can produce systemic change.

Sowers use and share skill-based advocacy, and take seriously the need for ongoing education, enrichment, and leadership development in the skills of public life.

Sowers are inspired by the values of solidarity with our community's most vulnerable members; the constructive role of government; and the promotion of peace. While these and all the principles of Catholic Social Teaching guide our work to create a more just and humane society, our values transcend religion.

Why Become a Sower?

Becoming a Sower of Justice is an opportunity to make a difference by working with others who share your commitment. In numbers, we are more powerful.

Become a Sower because...

You believe your values must be active in the world.

You believe in making a difference in the lives of those in poverty by joining with others to understand, communicate, and eradicate the root causes of poverty and injustice.

You believe in working with other organizations to create a more just metropolitan area and to promote solidarity and justice on a regional, state, and national scale.

As a Sower...

You receive Seeds of Justice newsletter four times a year, with news and information about policy, advocacy, government, social justice events, Catholic Social Teaching, and research-based issue education.

You receive calls to action to contact your elected officials when there are critical policy and legislative issues for you to weigh in on.

You have the opportunity to develop your capacity to be a leader and an activist in your community by attending social justice meet-ups and other events.

You have the opportunity to work with others in bridging the empathy gap, promoting peace, and partaking constructively in government and civic discourse.
