Catholic Charities Announces New Board of Directors

Nine new members join agency's board, providing a diverse cross-section of leaders from the business, civic and non-profit communities.

MINNEAPOLIS / SAINT PAUL, March 13, 2018 - Catholic Charities of Saint Paul and Minneapolis, the largest comprehensive social services organization in the region, announced today its new board of directors. Nine new members joined the agency's board effective January 1, 2018: Keith Anderson, Heather Anfang, Dr. Duane Carter, Kris Cotrone, Joe Donnelley, Amanda Norman, Jodi Richard, Steven Stenbeck, and Steven Wells.

"We are honored that these nine community and business leaders will join our Board of Directors. They will bring their experience, insights, and commitment to Catholic Charities and strengthen our work across the Greater Minneapolis-Saint Paul region," said Tom Arata, Chair of the Catholic Charities Board of Directors and Vice President – Global Technology Platforms for Ecolab.

"Catholic Charities is working to create a community where there is poverty for no one, and opportunity for everyone," said Tim Marx, President and Chief Executive Officer of Catholic Charities. "The individuals who serve on our board – and the businesses and community networks they represent – play a critical role in our ability to move closer toward that vision."

New Board Members Include:

- Keith Anderson, Piper Jaffray, Managing Director, Healthcare Investment Banking
